

I'm not robot

Continue

Virus wars max level

Anyone else play virus war of kunpo? I'm trying to figure out what all the secondary weapons are doing, but I'm struggling to pass level 85. The weapon locks go all the way up to level 230 or somethingPage 2 11 comments Someone else play virus war of kunpo? I'm trying to figure out what all the secondary weapons are doing, but I'm struggling to pass level 85. The weapon locks go all the way up to level 230 or anythingPage 2 11 comments Unlock and upgrade your secondary weapons Continue to cruise from level to level; Finally, starting when you hit level 5, then level 20, and more, you will unlock secondary weapons, which are automatically mounted to your ship and provide additional firepower. You can switch back and forth between an unlocked weapon you want that's unlocked. Also remember that the latest unlock is not necessarily the best secondary weapon. The question of best or worst depends on your playing style; For example, the first secondary weapon you unlock, big green bubble shooter, can do great damage just by floating multiple bubbles across the screen and having crowds of viruses run into them. It's usually one of the best secondary weapons in the game, and the further into the game you go, it becomes more and more overpowered compared to almost any other secondary weapon, due to the ability to hit any number of viruses without disappearing before it flows out of the screen. With each secondary weapon, you can upgrade both the firepower and the strength of the weapon. Strength upgrades are hugely expensive and it's not immediately obvious what they're doing. The name is non-specific. Strength upgrades are as valuable as their price would suggest, though. They increase the firing rate of your secondary weapon, as well as the size of each shot. Each upgrade is a bigger, faster, better, more upgrade, so to speak. Firepower upgrades, on the other hand, only increase the amount of damage done by each shot. First, increases increase are small, but as the levels get higher, so does the amount of firepower per upgrade. Occasionally, you can watch an ad video to try out a highly upgraded version of your secondary weapon for one step. The upgrades will be absolutely ridiculous (level 100 Strength and level 2000 Firepower, for example), so you can see exactly what all these upgrades are doing, as well as allowing you to hit a tough scene far easier. Earn tons of coins and get rich to earn more coins extremely quickly, be sure to take ad video offers when you finish the level. When you take the offer, an advertisement will play, and when the commercial is finished, your income will be tripled. This is especially worth it at levels where you earn a particularly high amount of coins. When the bar at the bottom of the level fills up, open the Jackpot area. When the ad video is finished, instead of the regular x3 you get a roulette that you can spin for an x10 bonus maximum. Minimum bonus here will be so even if you are an unlucky spinner, you still win. At the main level choose the menu, there is also a small area where coins will collect, giving you a small passive income. Go here and collect your coins often; they add to the amount of upgrades you are able to do, allowing you a whole bunch of extra firepower. They will not earn a massive amount of coins in a short time; this is more for long-term earnings. Once you've been offline for a long time (for example, overnight, a week or more), go here, and since the passive income circle never stops earning, you'll be able to raise a gigantic amount of money. How to get free gems gems is the premium currency of the game, but despite that status, you can upload on gems for free in several ways. One of them is to continue collecting the login reward every day. Collect for seven days in a row and days two, five and seven will provide gems. The second way to earn free gems is to complete entries in Viruspedia, located under the hamburger menu button just below the login reward area. Fill the bar under one of the viruses, to begin with. When the line is full, a red dot appears next to the VirusPedia button. When it does, go to Viruspedia and a gem reward will be available. Pearl rewards can be earned when you kill a certain number of the virus. Kill enough of it to fill the bar, and then collect. Energy energy in Virus War works in the same way as how you do mainly in puzzles. You use five energy to play a scene, and if you hit the stage, you get back the energy you used. If you lose on stage, your five energy will be gone. Fortunately, you get 80 energy maximum. So if you use all your energy, it will be a very short time before you get enough back to play one level again as you restore an energy every six minutes. It takes a while to get the full load back, though. You can use gems to get your energy back, or you can wait out the energy restoration. If you are at a super tough level, use the last of your energy right before going to bed, and when you wake up, your energy will be restored. Or use Stage Select to make it easy to get free energy. Stage Select - Go Back and Replay Old Levels This game has a limited level-select feature in it that is completely hidden but allows you to return to any of the previous six levels before the current one you are at. All you have to do is tap the number of the level you're currently at. When you do, a small hex grid of level numbers will appear. You can select either the current level, or you can select one of the six levels before that. This provides an excellent option if you want to earn some extra coins, but you get up to a level that is a little too hard to beat. What this option is really good for, though, is cheesing your way to free gems, and by extension, free energy. When you play a level, every virus that you kill will fill up Viruspedia. When you hit viral pedia milestones, you will be able to Free pearl rewards. And every time you play any level (including old ones), you won't lose energy if you win. So go back to old levels and play them again, knowing that you will win. Fill up viruspedia, then go there and collect your free gem rewards. So if you're almost out of energy, go and spend gems on some energy. Then you start to move forward and challenge current levels, especially the boss levels. Monthly membership There is a monthly subscription membership that you can buy for just five dollars per month, or what the equivalent is in your local currency. Your membership is cheap, but it includes many bonuses to speed up your progress. Firstly, you will earn 400% currency when you watch an ad video, instead of the 200% that you would normally earn from taking the ad bonus without your subscription. Secondly, when you die in the middle of any level, you will have the option to start over from where you left off by paying just one gem. This is in addition to the usual video reboot, giving you two restarts per level. Finally, you will earn a whopping 50 bonus gems per day once you have your membership. This is more than enough gems to buy many reboots, as well as many extra coins and energy. Pages: 1 2 Anyone else is playing virus war of kunpo? I'm trying to figure out what all the secondary weapons are doing, but I'm struggling to pass level 85. The

